NEW AGRICULTURE EXPORT POLICY TO SPUR EMPLOYMENT CREATION

Dr. S.P. Sharma &
Ms. Surbhi Sharma

The role of the agriculture sector remains critical to the Indian economy as a large proportion of population still depends on agriculture directly or indirectly. The sector is a supplier of food, fodder and raw materials for a vast segment of industry. Hence, enhanced and stable growth of the agriculture sector is important not only for generating purchasing power among the rural people but also through its contribution to price stability, demand creation and employment creation in the economy.

Currently, India's agriculture sector contributes to around 15-16% to GDP with the work force dependency still remaining at around 50%. The agriculture and allied sector grew at 3% (average) during 2012-13 to 2018-19. The Government has announced various initiatives to boost the growth of agriculture sector such as Minimum Support Price (MSP) at the rate of 1.5

times of the cost of farm produce, strengthening irrigation facilities, promoting organic farming, enhancing credit for farmers, crop insurance, timely updates on weather developments, strengthening road connectivity in rural areas, among others.

In a major breakthrough, the Union Cabinet has recently approved the Agriculture Export Policy 2018 with an objective to double farmers' income by 2022. In this regard, exports of agricultural products would play a critical role in achieving this objective. This breakthrough is expected to create immense employment opportunities in the agriculture and food processing exports; shifting disguised unemployment from traditional agriculture to food processing and agriculture exports and creating new employment opportunities for growing young unskilled, semi skilled and skilled workforce.

Going ahead, integrating Indian farmers and agricultural products with global chains would be necessary to harness the export potential of Indian agriculture sector. The key objectives of the Agriculture Export Policy 2018 are as follows:

- ♦ To double agricultural exports from the present level of USD 30 billion to USD 60 billion by 2022 and reach to around

USD 100 billion in next few years

- ♦ To diversify the export basket and boost high value and value added agricultural products including focus on perishables.
- ♦ To promote indigenous, organic, traditional and non-traditional agriculture products exports.
- ♦ To provide an institutional mechanism for pursuing market access, tackling barriers and deal with sanitary and phyto-sanitary issues.
- ♦ To double India's share in world agriculture exports by integrating with global value chain at the earliest.
- ♦ Enable farmers to get benefit of export opportunities in overseas market.

These reforms would go a long way and contribute to doubling the income of the farmers by 2022 in addition to improving the agriculture-infrastructure. It will not only uplift the agriculture

TRANSLATION AS A CAREER AND ITS SCOPE-II

Dr. Bharat Singh Negi & Prabha Negi

Multimedia Localization

Videos, graphics, animations, GIFs, info-graphics - all this can be grouped under multimedia; and this is very important today, as more and more companies are creating multimedia content to widen their audience reach and keep them engaged. Localizing this content can get quite tricky though it may look simple from the outside - as it has to be appropriate for the local culture, and appeal to the customers in that region. If you don't do it correctly, you could end up offending your audience - and drive them away.

Various types of translation require different ways of handling. As a result, many translators specialize in different fields of translation where they possess the best expertise and experience. It is very rare to find a translator who is able to handle all types of translation and produce high quality work.

Oral Translation

This translation is done by word of mouth. It is often referred as interpretation irrespective of the nature of the environment in which it takes place. It may be professional or nonprofessional.

Written translation

Here the translation is done in writing. The text is written from the source language into the target language and is presented in document form. The difference between the oral translation and written translation is very clear here as we have defined them respectively. Whereas oral translation is performed by an interpreter, written translation is performed by a translator

Computer/machine based translation

This is a type of translation where translations are performed using programmed software. The software analyses the text, detects the language and produces the translated version in the target language. However, the above major types of translations have several sub-fields or types of translations under them which include the following:

This is where the translation of a document is done on word-for-word translation basis. Here, sometimes the meaning of the whole document may not be given much attention but just translate each word the way it is from the original language to the target language.

Literal translation

This majorly works on the grammatical constructions of statements to maintain their meaning in the translated document. It clearly indicates the problem to be solved in the translation process. It deals with maintaining the essay form of the document, idioms used etc.

Free translations

These are translations majorly carried out in the natural form of the target language that is the context and the syntax for easy understanding by the natives of the target language but as well preserves the original meaning of the document.

Idiomatic translation

This is more like the free translations where the document is translated maintaining the original meaning but adding in the natural phrases and idioms of the target language for easy understanding.

Interpretive translations

These are translations that provide further interpretations, descriptions and meaning of the original or source text but not just simply the translation of words in the text or document.

Faithful translation

These are translations that tend to remain faithful to the original text or document by trying hard to reproduce the contextual presentation and the cultural words used in the document when translating the document. Therefore, for any translator or translation agency to perfect their translation services, they have to first fully understand the different types of translation and how to undertake them for better use of both the original and the translated document. Understanding these types of translation plays a significant role while undertaking any translation job. Translators need to determine which kind of translation fits which situation and environment rather than simply word conversions from one language to another.

When you need a translation services, it is therefore advised to consult a translation agency providing professional translation

services. This is because translation companies have a much better understanding of these translation types and they can guide appropriately. This is to ensure perfect translation of a given text or word to match the audience, environment or situation. Translators always command different skills and expertise in their respective fields of translation. The best source to avail a translator with skills relative to your requirement is through translation agencies. They always work hard to produce perfect translations for their clients

Interpreter or Translation Courses In IndiaEducation for Interpreters and Translators

A bachelor's degree is typically needed to become an interpreter or translator along with proficiency in at least two languages, one of which is usually English.

High school students interested in becoming an interpreter or translator should take a broad range of courses that focus on foreign languages and English writing and comprehension.

Beyond high school, people interested in becoming interpreters or translators have numerous educational options. Those in college typically choose a specific language as their major, such as Spanish or French. Although many jobs require a bachelor's degree, majoring in a language is not always necessary.

Through community organizations, students interested in sign language interpreting may take introductory classes in American Sign Language (ASL) and seek out volunteer opportunities to work with people who are deaf or hard of hearing.

Interpreter and Translator Training

Interpreters and translators generally do not need any formal training, as they are expected to be able to interpret and translate before they are hired. However, those working in the community as court or medical interpreters or translators are more likely to complete job-specific training programs or certificates.

Continuing education is a requirement for most state court and medical interpreting certification programs. It is offered by professional interpreter and translator associations such as the American Translators Association and the National Association of Judiciary Interpreters on a regular basis.

Licenses, Certifications, and Registrations for Interpreters and Translators

There is currently no universal certification required of interpreters and translators beyond passing the required court interpreting exams offered by most states. However, workers can take a variety of tests that show proficiency. For example, the American Translators Association provides certification in 29 language combinations. The federal courts offer court interpreter certification for Spanish language interpreters. At the state level, the courts offer certification in at least 20 languages. The National Association of the Deaf and the Registry of Interpreters for the Deaf jointly offer certification for general sign language interpreters. In addition, the registry offers specialty tests in legal interpreting, speech reading, and deaf-to-deaf interpreting-which includes interpreting among deaf speakers of different native languages and from ASL to tactile signing.

Other Experience for Interpreters and Translators

Other helpful experience for pursuing this career include spending time in a foreign country, interacting directly with foreign cultures, and studying a variety of subjects in English and at least one other language. Some students study a specialty such as law, engineering, or medicine in order to provide a higher level of interpreting and translation. A good way for translators to learn firsthand about the occupation is to start working in-house for a translation company. Doing informal or volunteer work is an excellent way for people seeking interpreter or translator jobs to gain experience. Volunteer opportunities for interpreters are available through community organizations, hospitals, and sporting events, such as marathons, that involve international competitors. Paid or unpaid internships are other ways that interpreters and translators can gain experience. Escort interpreting may offer an opportunity for inexperienced candidates to work alongside a more experienced interpreter. Interpreters also may find it easier to begin working in industries with particularly high demand for language services, such as court or medical interpreting.

Whatever path of entry new interpreters and translators pursue, they should develop mentoring relationships with experienced workers in the field to build their skills and confidence and to establish and expand a network of contacts. Mentoring may be formal, such as that received through a professional association, or informal, such as that engaged in with a coworker or an acquaintance who has experience as an interpreter or translator. Both the American Translators Association and the Registry of Interpreters for the Deaf offer formal mentoring programs.

Advancement for Interpreters and Translators

After interpreters and translators have enough experience, they can move up to more difficult assignments, seek certification, and obtain editorial responsibility. They can also manage or start their own business.

Many self-employed interpreters and translators choose to become self-employed as a means to advance. They may submit resumes and samples to different translation and interpreting companies who will match their skills with various jobs. Many get work on the basis of their reputation or through referrals from clients or colleagues. Some may also start their own companies, where they hire other translators and interpreters to work for them.

Important Qualities for Interpreters and Translators

- ◆ Business skills. Self-employed interpreters and translators need general business skills to manage their finances and careers successfully. They must set prices for their work, bill customers, keep records, and market their services in order to build their client base.
- ◆ Concentration. Interpreters and translators must be able to concentrate while others are speaking or moving around them.
- ◆ Cultural sensitivity. Interpreters and translators must be sensitive to cultural differences and expectations among the people whom they are helping to communicate. Successful interpreting and translating is a matter not only of knowing the words in different languages but also of understanding people's cultures.
- ◆ Dexterity. Sign language interpreters must be able to make quick and coordinated hand, finger, and arm movements when interpreting.
- ◆ Interpersonal skills. Interpreters and translators, particularly those who are self-employed, must be able to get along with those who hire or use their services in order to retain clients and attract new business.
- ◆ Listening skills. Interpreters must listen carefully when interpreting for audiences to ensure that they hear and interpret correctly.
- ◆ Reading skills. Translators must be able to read in all of the languages in which they are working.
- ◆ Speaking skills. Interpreters and translators must speak clearly in all of the languages in which they are working.

- ◆ Writing skills. Translators must be able to write clearly and effectively in all of the languages in which they are working.

Qualification: There are various types of related courses available with universities and other institutions; these are certificate, diploma and degree courses. Qualifications depend on the level of the course. An acquaintance with a foreign language is always advisable for joining this field. This can be obtained through short term training courses moving from basic to advanced levels with the institutions like Alliance Francaise (www.afindia.org) or Max Muller Bhavan (www.goe.the.de/unn/adr/wwt/ina/deindex.hem) sector but also the rural demand which will ultimately increase the demand for consumer durables further giving a push to the manufacturing sector and creation of employment opportunities for the growing young workforce.

Agriculture Export Policy to boost exports

For the promotion of agriculture exports and employment creation, the Government of India under the vibrant Agriculture Export Policy 2018 would be focusing on the following reforms to harness the export potential of Indian agriculture through policy instruments and to make India a global power in agriculture and raise farmers' income.

- ◆ Policy measures and stable trade policy regime: The agriculture export policy will strengthen and encourage discussions with public and private stakeholders across the agricultural value chain in order to discuss emerging developments in the sector and highlight changes required to boost agricultural exports. Further, providing a policy assurance that the processed agricultural products and all kinds of organic products will not be brought under the ambit of any kind of export restriction.
- ◆ Reforms in APMC Act and streamlining Mandi fee: The policy aims to put efforts with State Government in removing perishables from their Agricultural Produce Marketing Committees (APMC) Act. Further, consultation among the relevant stakeholders and Ministries to identify the commodities which are essential from food security perspective and barring such identified commodities under any kind of export restrictions will be promoted.
- ◆ Liberalizing land leasing norms: The policy focuses on liberalizing land leasing norms and promotion of adopting contract farming act which provides a possibility of an extended farming area and expected to generate large scale private investments, promoting mechanization and, thus, produce surplus volumes of standardized, exportable quality of agricultural products.
- ◆ Infrastructure and logistics boost: The policy focuses on strengthening robust infrastructure which involves developing pre and post harvest handling facilities, storage and distribution, processing facilities, roads and world class exit point infrastructure at ports facilitating trade. The policy focuses to compile all the logistics and infrastructure bottlenecks confronting different products by undertaking need-gap analysis of existing export oriented infrastructure across the value chain. Developing sea protocols for perishables will be promoted for long distance markets.
- ◆ Greater involvement of State Governments in Agriculture Exports: The policy focuses on identification of a nodal state department or agency for promotion of agriculture exports. The Ministry of Commerce and Industry, Government of India will play a proactive role in supporting and handholding such nodal agency at the state level. Although many State Governments have come with export policy, however, the policy aims to promote the inclusion on agricultural exports in the State Export Policy.
- ◆ Focus on clusters, promoting value added exports, promotion of R&D activities and marketing of agriculture products: The policy focuses on cluster development approach to boost the agricultural production in India. A similar approach in export centric clusters is like to result in more focussed pre and post harvest management of the production as well as upgrading the supply chain to attain higher level of exports in the coming times.
- ◆ It also focuses on product development for indigenous commodities and value addition, promote value added organic exports, development of organic exports zones, food park, marketing and branding of food products, developing uniform quality and packing standards, promotion of research and development for new product development for the upcoming markets. Further, Agriculture -start-up fund will be created to support entrepreneurs to start a new venture in agriculture products exports during their initial period of establishment.

Trend in India's agricultural exports

Over the years, India has been gradually integrating its agriculture with global markets and as a result, our exports of agriculture and allied products have grown. The key agriculture and allied export products from our country are broadly categorized into forty three categories which includes animal casings, alcoholic beverages, basmati rice, buffalo meat, cashew, cashew nut shell liquid, castor oil, cereal preparations, cocoa products, coffee, cotton raw including waste, dairy products, floriculture, fresh fruits, vegetables, fruits or vegetables seeds, groundnut, guar gum.

It also includes marine products, milled products, miscellaneous processed items, molasses, niger seeds, non-basmati rice, oil meals, other cereals, other meat, poultry products, processed fruits and juices, processed meat, processed vegetables, pulses, sesame seeds, sheep/goat meat, shellac, spices, sugar, tea, manufactured and unmanufactured tobacco, vegetable oils, wheat and other cereals, meat, oil seeds.

Workforce dependency on agriculture sector

The workforce dependency on agriculture sector is declining over the years. During 1991, the workforce dependency on agriculture sector was at about 64%, which declined to around 60% in 2000, 52% in 2010 and 42% in 2018. The reason is attributed to the shift of workforce from agriculture to other upcoming sectors of the Indian economy such as services sector including telecom services, information technology, tourism, construction, among others.

Exports linked jobs created in the agriculture and allied sector

India has a large and abundant agriculture base and is among the world's leading producer of cereals, milk, sugar, fruits and vegetables, spices, seafood products among others. India is supporting around 18% of world's population with about 2.4% of world's land and 4% water resources. Therefore, efforts and innovations towards productivity, pre and post harvest management, processing and value addition, use of technology, skill development and infrastructure creation are key areas for Indian agriculture. The total number of export linked jobs in agriculture and allied sector has increased from around 20 million (average) in 1999-2000 to 2005-06 period to more than 23 million in the recent times.

New Agriculture Export Policy to spur employment creation

Expected to create 20 million employment opportunities in the agriculture and food processing exports; shifting disguised unemployment from traditional agriculture to food processing and agriculture exports and creating new employment opportunities for growing young unskilled, semi-skilled and skilled workforce.

A well developed agriculture sector with higher level of processing helps in reduction of wastage, improves value addition, ensures better return to the farmers, promotes crop diversification, generate employment opportunities and increases export earnings. India is globally acknowledged as the leading producer of several agriculture and allied products. Globally, India is well known as the leading producer of milk, banana, mango, guava, papaya, ginger, okra, wheat, rice, fruits, vegetables, tea, sugarcane, cashew nut, cereals, coconut, lettuce, chicory, cardamon, pepper, among others. It gains from location advantage from the viewpoint of trade, due to its close proximity with Middle East, Africa, Europe from the western coast and Japan, Singapore, Thailand, Malaysia, Korea, Australia and New Zealand from the eastern coast.

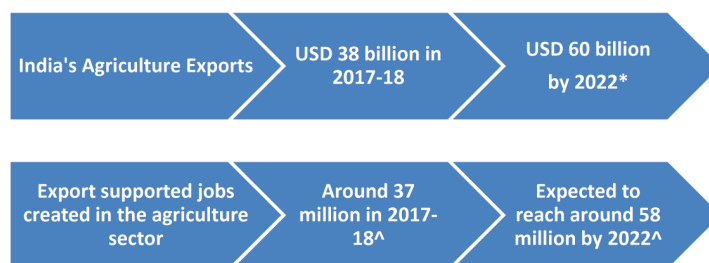

Several incentives have been provided by the Government to push the growth and exports of agriculture sector. The following reforms under the vibrant New Agriculture Export Policy 2018 will help in increasing agriculture export and create employment opportunities in the coming times

Conclusions and suggestions

Agriculture continues to be the single most important livelihood for masses in India. It holds vital demand and supply linkages with other sectors of the economy. Going ahead, boosting food processing and agricultural exports holds immense significance for India to map on global charts as our country only contributes 2% share in global exports of agricultural products. In this regard, new agriculture export policy 2018 with a vision to double the farmers' income and increase the agricultural exports would play a critical role in the coming times. Some of the suggestions to boost the growth and exports of agriculture sector and employment creation in the economy are:

- ♦ Ease of doing business: Availability of sound ease of doing business is critical for the growth of agriculture sector. A dedicated Investor Portal called 'Nivesh Bandhu' has been set up to facilitate and assist investors in taking informed decisions. There is a need to strengthen environment for providing one stop information source on various policy developments, incentives offered, agriculture supporting resources and infrastructure facilities across the country.
- ♦ Promotion of cluster approach: Promoting cluster approach and setting up more agriculture based and food processing clusters would go a long way in supporting the individual entrepreneurs to sustain viable infrastructure facility at different stages in value chain. Promoting processing clusters and creating strong backward and forward linkages from farm gate to retails outlet through various measures including setting up of food parks/processing clusters with good fiscal and financial incentives is necessary to push growth of agriculture sector.
- ♦ Infrastructure development: There is a need to improve physical infrastructure like access to road, strength rural connectivity and competitiveness of the agriculture sector. Priority should be given to strengthen rural connectivity to markets for building strong linkage between raw material supplier and processing units. The logistics, transport system and development of ports including dry ports should be promoted on PPP mode in the coming times.
- ♦ Research and Development (R&D) and technology up gradation: R&D especially in areas like packaging, product development, food technology, among others needs to be strengthened. Provision of sponsored research and grants for promoting research related activities should be promoted from time to time. As small scale sector contribute a major chunk in food processing, they should be facilitated with technology upgradation facilities, ease of access to credit availability, market access, technical advice on productivity, marketing, selection of equipment and machinery, among others.
- ♦ Implementation of quality standards/certification: Adherence to minimum quality/ standard of food products for the international market is necessary to increase the share of Indian food processing products on global map. Awareness on quality of standards of food products need to be created through organizing large scale seminars, events, training programmes, among others. The food processing industry should strengthened its implementation module regarding global standards to increase their exports to several parts of the world in the coming times.
- ♦ Ease of access to raw materials: Regular availability of raw material is important for ensuring competitiveness of food processing industries. The cost of raw material tends to be high due to higher transportation costs and wastage of raw materials during transportation. Promotion of reliable and strong supply chain network between raw material suppliers and processing units on PPP basis should be promoted.
- ♦ Export marketing of products: Strengthening marketing and brand building of Indian products in foreign markets is critical to enhance exports of agricultural products in the coming times. There is need to embark upon the promotional campaign to promote high value added Make in India food products in developed markets. Further, there is need to promote an environment of undertaking market studies either in-house or engaging any research firm before launching any product or entering into a new market.

Encourage training and skill development: Small scale and unorganized food processing units generally hold a large section of unskilled, semi-skilled and skilled rural workers. In order to create better and favourable working environment, there is need to promote training and skill development of manpower, continuous technology up gradation, diversification and marketing of products, enhancement of knowledge about food safety and requirements, among others.

Momen co-chaired the meeting. In a tweet, External Affairs Ministry spokesperson Raveesh Kumar said Mrs Swaraj and Mr Momen took stock of progress in security, defence, trade and connectivity, development partnership, water, power and energy sectors and consular and cultural cooperation. ■ France recalled its ambassador to Rome in a move unprecedented since World War II saying it was fed up with "repeated, baseless" attacks by Italian political leaders on the country. The move came amid mounting tensions between the two European Union members after Italy's deputy Prime Minister met French yellow vest protesters. France's foreign ministry recalled its ambassador to Rome for consultations after a series of comments from Italy's two deputy prime ministers, Luigi Di Maio and Matteo Salvini. Di Maio and Salvini, who formed a populist coalition government together last year, have repeatedly criticised French President Emmanuel Macron, who has, in turn, targeted their "eurosceptic actions" before high-stakes European Parliament elections in May.

Business & Economy

■ Reserve Bank of India in its bi-monthly monetary policy has reduced repo rate by 25 basis points to 6.25 per cent. RBI's six-member monetary policy committee also brought down reverse repo rate to 6 per cent. The repo rate is the rate at which the Reserve Bank lends short-term money to the banks, while the reserve repo rate is the rate at which the central bank borrows money from commercial banks. It was the first policy review by the RBI after appointment of its governor Shaktikanta Das in December last year.

Addressing the post monetary policy announcement in Mumbai, Mr. Das said the decision has been taken in view of the overall inflation and rise in the agricultural input costs since 2010 when the limit was last revised. Mr. Das said this move will enhance coverage of small and marginal farmers in the formal credit system.

Requiring five wickets to defend their title, the home team bundled out the visitors for 127 with more than two sessions to spare at the VCA stadium of Nagpur. Chasing the 206 runs target in the second innings, top order of Saurashtra collapsed. They required 148 runs on the fifth and final day, but Aditya Sarwate's six-wicket haul denied them their maiden title.

■ World champion Indian weightlifter Saikhom Mirabai Chanu has notched up a gold medal at the EGAT Cup in Thailand. Chanu won the 48kg category gold with an effort of 192 kg in the silver level Olympic qualifying event.
