DIGITALIZATION: KEY TO REVITALIZE GROWTH AND EMPLOYMENT

Dr. S.P. Sharma &
Ms. Megha Kaul

Digitalization refers to the integration of digital technology into daily living establishing relationship between various segments of the society ranging from producers, distributors, retailers, workers and consumers. It is expected to have significant impact on economy in terms of increased speed of economic activities, enhanced efficiencies and better growth prospects. Cross country experiences show that spillovers of digitalization have been witnessed with positive outcomes across the economic segments such as agriculture, industry, infrastructure, mining, manufacturing, construction, trade and finance. With the enhanced production possibility frontiers and increased economies of scale, digitalization creates an opportunity for entrepreneurs to expand workforce and to produce more.

Digital Revolution in India

The Indian economy has been witnessing technological transformation as the adoption of technology has increased remarkably in the recent times. The digitalization would give a significant boost to rural connectivity and enhanced standards of living of the people in the coming times. Increased digitisation is expected to have a widespread economic, social as well as sustainable development impact on the economy.

According to a report by World Bank, 10% increase in mobile and broadband penetration increases the per capita GDP by 0.81% and 1.38% respectively in the developing countries. Thus, the reforms in digitalization are expected to result in digital revolution in the economy and to spur growth and employment in the coming times.

Digital Economy, jobs and economic growth

The Indian economy is the fastest moving emerging economy in the world economic system. The share of India in world's GDP has been increasing over the time. According to the 2018 Global Multidimensional Poverty Index (MPI) of United Nations, over 270 million people have moved out of poverty in India. Going ahead, it becomes imperative to provide state-of-the-art facilities to the rising population to improve their standards of living and promote all inclusive growth in the economy. To support a growing population, technology plays a major role in increasing productivity, reducing losses and improving efficiency across various sectors of the economy viz. Agriculture and Allied Activities, Industry and Services. It is expected that with the growth of Digitalization, the efficiency and efficacy of economic activities would be improved significantly and the enhanced speed of economic activity has potential to create additional jobs every year in the various areas of Indian economy. The enhanced economic activity has potential to push the economic growth trajectory by at least 2 percentage points in the next five years.

Agriculture and Allied Activities

The share of agriculture sector in the GDP has declined from about 50% in the early 1950s to around 17% in 2017-18. However, the dependence on agriculture as a source of livelihood is as high as 42%. Thus, there is a need to boost the growth of agriculture sector so as to create ample employment opportunities for the workforce engaged in it. Digitalization can play a major role in addressing the challenge of food wastage in the sector for enhancing productivity and higher economies of scale. Digitalization can play an important role in reducing losses with improved supply chain through research in Nano technology. This would facilitate

CAREERS IN INSURANCE INDUSTRY

Vijay Prakash Srivastava

Sometime back in these pages of Employment News there was an article about careers in Actuarial science. In fact being qualified as an actuary, one is most likely to enter into insurance profession. However there are many more opportunities and roles available in the insurance industry and this article is a humble attempt to explore the same.

Zindagi Ke sath bhi, Zindagi ke bad bhi (जिंदगी के साथ भी, जिंदगी के बाद भी) you might have come across these lines in the advertisement of an insurance company. Benefits of Insurance may be available to a person in life, and if situation changes the benefits are available to immediate family.

Insurance has a direct correlation with risk, perceived risk to be precise. Risk which is considered to be an integral part of life and business, is defined as a probability or unexpected threat that may result in injury to or death of a person or damage to or loss of a property. Whenever an untoward incident like loss of a life takes place.

The family may be affected in many ways. There are emotional upheavals and the family may have lost the comfort of a regular income, needed to support the family, which was earned by the deceased person. Similarly, when a person is injured resulting in temporary or permanent disability, the financial loss, likely to occur, could be on account of medical expenditure and loss of earning due to disability. When it comes to property, movable or unmovable, the financial loss can be assumed in terms of money required to repair, rebuild the asset or buying a new one. In all the above cases insurance is a big support and this supporting role encourages people to take insurance policies. Insurance is defined as a special contract between the insurer and the person or entity, known as insured/client, opting for the insurance. Insurance is a mechanism by which the affected party is able to get a compensation for the financial loss suffered by her as a result of unexpected or unforeseen incidents. Under an agreement of insurance, the client is required to pay insurance fee/charges to the insurance company. This fee/charge in the insurance vocabulary is known as premium which can be one time or periodical payment depending upon the terms and conditions of insurance undertaken. In lieu of this premium the insurance company agrees to make certain payment to the client or bear the costs of a client in case of an unforeseen event, defined in the policy.

Insurance, in fact, is a model of sharing of risks and financial losses. Losses of few people are divided among large number of people. So all of those who have bought insurance would share the loss of few who have actually incurred the loss.

Insurance Business in India

Compared with global standards, reach of insurance is considered to be low in our country. However more and more people are now realising the importance of insurance for self and family. Many organizations also offer insurance coverage to their employees. Demographic factors like growing middle class, young insurable population, organizational initiatives and government participation are driving the insurance penetration and as per trends the overall insurance industry is to reach US $ 280 by 2020.

Types of Insurance

Insurance has broadly two segments-Life insurance and non-life insurance which is also termed as general insurance. Life insurance provides coverage to the life of individuals. Life Insurance Corporation of India, incorporated in 1956, is the only government company in this sector. It has about 115 Divisional and 3700 other offices in the country.

Under general insurance the major categories are

- Health Insurance
- Travel Insurance
- Motor/Vehicle Insurance
- Household Insurance
- Fire Insurance
- Marine Insurance
- Crop Insurance

Insurance is also provided for export, engineering goods etc.

The following are non-life insurance companies promoted by the Government of India

- National Insurance Corporation Limited
- New India Assurance Company Limited
- General Insurance Corporation of India
- United India Insurance Company Limited

All the above five companies advertise for requirement of manpower in the following positions:

Assistant Administrative Office (AAO): This is a position similar to that of probationary officer in public sector banks. While for all public sector banks the vacancies are pooled and a common selection test is held, AAOs are recruited by individual insurance companies as per the employment notice issued by them.

Graduates from all disciplines are eligible to apply for the position of AAO. The selection process is divided into three stages, first being the preliminary examination. Containing questions of reasoning ability, quantitative aptitude, English language (grammar, vocabulary, comprehension).

Merit list for interview is prepared based on score in main examination only.

Assistant: The position of Assistant is a clerical position and usually vacancies for them are more than that of AAOs. Here also all graduates are eligible. While AAOs are selected on all India basis and can be posted anywhere within the country, applicants for assistants' positions have to indicate the state/union territory for which they are applying. Upon selection they get their posting accordingly.

Assistants who perform well may get promoted to officers cadre after putting in required number of years, subject to available vacancies.

Specialist positions: There are many specialists position in insurance companies though its number is much less when compared with generalists positions. Since specific qualifications are required there are lesser applicants and the competition takes place accordingly. The following are the most common specialists positions in insurance companies:

Actuary: Graduates who have passed the required papers in the examination conducted by Institute of Actuaries of India/Institute and Faculty of Actuaries, United Kingdom are eligible to apply for this position.

Law officer: A degree in law and being registered for practicing law, by Bar Council of India is the common requirement for the position of Law officer in insurance companies. You should have pursued Law either after your graduation or 5 years integrated course after 12th.

Information technology officer: Insurance companies are adopting Information Technology in a big way and to strengthen their related infrastructure need Information technology officers. To apply the candidate should at least be a graduate in Engineering in Information Technology/ Computer Science or Electronics. Those qualified as Master of Computer Applications (MCA) or Master of Computer Science (M.Sc. Computer Science) are also considered eligible.

Human Resources officer: A postgraduate Degree or Diploma in Management with specialization in Human Resources or a similar qualification is required for this position. In some cases candidates with Master of Social Work are also considered eligible.

Official Language officer: All central government departments and public sector undertakings need to have Official Language officers as prescribed in relevant acts/rules. This is applicable for the above insurance companies also. Postgraduates in English/Hindi with Hindi/English at graduation level are considered. Sometimes postgraduates in Sanskrit with English and Hindi at graduation level are also allowed to apply. Some experience/certificate in translation may be required/an advantage.

Specialist vacancies also exist in finance function for which qualifications like MBA (Finance), Chartered accountancy are considered. For specialists positions candidate has to appear in an additional test of professional/ subject knowledge. For example the one who has applied for the position of HR officer will have to appear in the test of Human Resource Management.

Jobs in private sector Insurance companies:

There are more than 50 private companies in life and non-life insurance business. These companies generally don't follow a single or standardized model for recruitment as government insurance companies. Sometimes these private companies go for campus placement for students of insurance related courses and for specialised positions in actuarial science, marketing, law, finance etc. Opportunities can be checked with their websites.

Working as an Insurance Agent:

Insurance is a matter of solicitation and most of the insurance policies are mobilised through agents identified/accredited by insurance companies. Those who are at least matriculate (10th pass) and over 18 years of age may opt to become an insurance agent after obtaining the required certification. In many cases the insurance company arrange classroom training for agency aspirants after which the candidate has to appear in the certification test prescribed by the Insurance Regulatory and Development Authority of India (IRDAI). The other option is to attend the online course, pass the certification examination and then apply for agency. The certification has to be renewed after prescribed intervals for which one is required to attend refresher training and then pass the required test.

Courses related to Insurance:

At few institutes you may find an undergraduate course like B.Com. (Insurance) or BBA (Insurance). At postgraduate level you have the opportunity to pursue a management course (MBA/Postgraduate Diploma in Management) with insurance. National Law University has MBA in Insurance & Risk Management. Banaras Hindu University has a similar course. BIMTECH, Noida offers PGDM in Insurance Business Management. Aligarh Muslim University has a PG Diploma in Banking, Risk & Insurance Management. These are just few (indicative) examples.

Institute of Insurance & Risk Management is joint initiative of IRDAI and Government of Telangana. It conducts courses like PG Diploma in Management, PG Diploma in Investment & Risk Management, PG Diploma in Actuarial Science, PG Diploma in Analytics & Actuarial Science.

Insurance Institute of India: Insurance Institute of India(III) at Mumbai is the pioneer in continuing insurance education in the country. It conducts courses like PG Diploma in Health Insurance, PG Diploma in Insurance Marketing, International Certification in Life & General Insurance, Executive Diploma in Insurance Management, Certificate in Compliance, Governance & Risk Management in Insurance, Certified Insurance Anti-Fraud Professional (jointly with North American Training Group, USA). III also offers online training for licensing of insurance agents/brokers.

National Insurance Academy at Pune offers Postgraduate Diploma in Management with emphasis on Insurance. Brokers online learning course is also available with the academy.

Role of IRDAI: Insurance Regulatory and Development Authority of India (IRDAI), headquartered at Hyderabad, is the regulator of insurance business in the country. It plays the same role as RBI for banks and SEBI for stock markets. IRDAI also has opening for insurance professionals, usually at senior level and for experienced candidates. Working here is considered to be highly prestigious.

One may also get associated with insurance industry as a loss surveyor or loss assessor by obtaining required certification from a body recognised by IRDAI. Job opportunities also exist in specialised agencies like Agriculture Insurance Corporation of India and Deposit Insurance and Credit Guarantee Corporation.

DIGITALIZATION TO REVITALIZE ...

preserving food for longer duration and keeping farm produce fresh. The digitalization of supply chain management in agriculture would facilitate synchronization in timely delivery and replenishment of food grains in the godowns. It would provide significant information to farmers as well as distributors and other stakeholders about the stock of food grains thereby enabling proper planning and reducing losses due to abundant production.

The agriculture sector is heavily dependent on monsoon. A normal rainfall results in higher agricultural output boosting economic growth and keeping inflation in check. On the other hand, weak monsoon leads to increase in farm cost of production because of increased cost of inputs. Increased cost of inputs results in decline in net realization and reduce the spending power of the farmers and impact overall rural demand. Digitalization could support the farmers by forecasting weather changes so that the farmers can plan the sowing of crops and other activities accordingly. Further, inputs for better soil productivity and soil structure through access to information can facilitate the farmers in producing the right crops which are suitable on their land and climatic conditions.

Digitalization could also support the farmers in getting the right price for their produce. The farmers sometimes are unaware of the price for their produce and in some cases, they do not get good price for their produce due to excess production. Digitalization would support them by providing tools for estimating prices for their produce in order to get the right price from the market. Further, digitalization would also support the farmers to avail formal sources of credit for their farm operations by providing them with information of various sources of funding.

The allied activities such as animal husbandry, fisheries would also be benefitted immensely from the digital economy. Application of digital tools would provide accurate information on the sea tides, potential fishing zones, forecasts about the state of ocean and market related information. This would increase productivity of the sector, going forward. All these benefits are expected to scale up economic benefits from the sector. It is therefore estimated that with digitalization, millions of additional jobs would be created with the shift of disguised unemployment in the agriculture sector towards food processing and allied activities such as fisheries dairy and fisheries.

Technologies enabling growth

The present economic system requires certain technologies to achieve fast, strong and sustainable growth. These range from advanced oil and gas exploration, artificial intelligence, advanced robotics, autonomous vehicles, advanced geographic information systems (GIS), Cloud Computing, Digital Payments to Internet of things, Mobile Internet, Next generation genomics and 3D printing and advanced materials, among others.

Technologies enabling growth

-  Mobile Internet
-  Digital payments
-  Verifiable Digital Identity
-  Next generation genomics
-  Advanced geographic information systems(GIS)
-  Intelligent transportation and distribution
-  Internet of things
-  Advanced oil and gas exploration and recovery
-  Advanced energy storage
-  Artificial Intelligence
-  Autonomous Vehicles
-  Advanced Robotics
-  3D printing and advanced materials
-  Cloud Computing
-  Automation of knowledge work

Industry

The Indian industry has been using automation with robotics. The robotics is connected remotely to computer systems equipped with machine learning algorithms which can control the robotics with minimum human support. It is based on cyber physical production systems that integrate communications, IT, data and physical elements. These systems transform the traditional plants into smart factories. It is expected that with investments in digital economy such as artificial intelligence, Big Data analytics, Internet of Things (IoT) and robotics, the manufacturing cycle time can be reduced to half which would provide significant business returns, going forward.

Timeline of Industrial Revolution

Manufacturing sector is the backbone of the Indian economy. Currently, the share of manufacturing sector in India's GDP is around 17%. This is lower than the share of manufacturing sector in GDP of many advanced and emerging economies.

Share of Manufacturing Sector in GDP of select economies

Country(s)	Share of Manufacturing in GDP in 2017
China	29.3%
Thailand	27.1%
Japan*	21%
Germany	20.7%
Indonesia	20.2%

Source: PH.D Research Bureau compiled from World Bank, *Data pertains to the year 2016

Digitalization can contribute remarkably to the growth of the manufacturing sector by modernizing the processes and optimizing the business cycles thereby creating higher value and new business offering for stimulating growth of the sector. This would lead to rise in the share of manufacturing sector in GDP. It is estimated that with the end-to-end digitalization of the factory can lead to rise in the productivity from around 12% to 20%. Thus, with increase in productivity, industrial activity would increase thereby facilitating growth of jobs in this sector. It is estimated that millions of additional jobs would be created with the increased efficiency of the enterprises, increased price-cost margins, scope for expansion of production possibilities and expansion of workforce in the factories.

Services

Technological advances and increased tradability have led to significant change in the composition of trade in services. The Indian economy is a prominent example of a developing country that has built up export capacity in sectors such as Business Process Outsourcing (BPO) and computer services. India's total exports of software services (excluding exports through overseas commercial presence) increased to US$108.4 billion in 2017-18 which is an increase of 11.6%. India's share in world services exports have increased from around 2.6% in 2008 to 3.4% in 2017.

India's Share in World Services Exports (in percentage)

Source: World Bank Database

The rise of digital economy is expected to reap significant economic benefits in the services sector as high global connectivity would give a push to service exports and India's share in world exports is expected to increase further. The Internet of Things would optimise movement of goods and services. Further, real time data on traffic management, weather emergencies would be easily available thereby reducing losses due to delays and natural calamities. This would not only facilitate trade but also promote safety and save resources due to disasters and poor management. The e-commerce would witness significant growth due to growing internet connectivity globally. This would open greater avenues of employment in not just e-commerce but also in related activities such as logistics, marketing, among others.

The digital penetration is expected to have a significant impact on the financial services.

Thus, with rising digitalization the services sector would witness a boom as it would facilitate each of the sub-sectors creating ample job opportunities.

Digitalization is the new game changer and is set to become the new normal as it has immense potential to achieve transformational changes in every section of the society and promote all-inclusive growth and development in the economy. The value addition to each of the sectors is expected to generate tremendous economic benefits. The enhanced economic activity has potential to push the economic growth trajectory by at least 2 percentage points in the next five years.

Going ahead, there is a need to improve the digital literacy in the country to make people digitally competitive. Digitalization should find its way in the school curriculum right from the early stages. The technology-based services should be made in language that is understandable to the user.

The time is most opportune for India to embrace technological developments and translate them into opportunities for creation of millions of employment opportunities. There is a transition in the job landscape in the economy from conventional jobs to emergence of new engines of job creation. The share of agriculture sector in employment creation has declined while that of industry and services is increasing rapidly. There is a need for massive skilling and re-skilling of workforce so as to make them job-ready. The industry needs to focus on re-designing their business models against the backdrop of growing technological development and also to drive the re-skilling of existing workforce. Going ahead, we look forward to further reform measures of the government to promote digitalization and participation of all the stakeholders for the creation of massive employment opportunities for the growing workforce in the country.
